

Taylor Munro is an associate who focuses her practice on professional liability insurance coverage, with particular emphasis in cyber liability and privacy issues. Her practice includes advising international and domestic insurers in insurance coverage analysis, including claims arising from privacy data breaches, ransomware and other network attacks, business interruption claims, media and technology exposures, and fraudulent wire transfers.

Taylor earned her J.D., summa cum laude, from the Northern Illinois University College of Law in 2022. While there, she served as Staff Editor of the NIU Law Review Volume 41 and Associate Editor for the NIU Law Review Volume 42. Prior to law school, she received her B.A. in Political Science, summa cum laude, from Illinois State University with a minor in Legal Studies. While earning her B.A., Taylor also received her paralegal certificate.

Prior to joining BatesCarey, Taylor served as a litigation paralegal at a national law firm, focusing on professional liability and medical malpractice litigation matters.
